Vaught, Inc's "Thinking Ball" Gets a Major Upgrade

Beckley, WV, August 3rd, 2010 - Until recently, it was not uncommon for a basketball to find its way into a meeting at Vaught, Inc. In fact, the basketball (affectionately referred to as the "thinking ball") was passed around the room when an especially creative solution was needed. On August 3, 2010, the "thinking ball" got a major upgrade. During a fundraising event for Hospice of Southern West Virginia, we were fortunate enough to meet NBA legend Jerry West who graciously autographed the ball.

Our "thinking ball" is now in the company showcase. No worries, though. There is a new "thinking ball" – a football this time.
